Offering the restful lifestyle of a country squire in a totally private and surprisingly quiet setting, this beautiful and luxurious home provides the best of California living. Completed in 2004 by Neylan Construction, the home features picture windows and glass doors in most rooms, presenting a seamless connection to the outdoors with the signature views of the lush David Packard Apricot Orchard.

The home's flowing two-level design spans approximately 4,269 square feet, with spacious rooms finished with quarter-sawn oak hardwood floors, crown moldings, and recessed lighting. A fireplace in the living room offers a warm gathering point and custom light fixtures in the formal and casual dining rooms define seating space for any size meal. Catering it all is a beautiful gourmet kitchen with designer finishes, granite countertops, and a breakfast "peninsula" that opens into the family room and invites daily socializing. Adding to the main-level accommodations is an office and library with custom cabinetry.

Upstairs, the light-filled master bedroom suite with a fireplace, large walk-in closet, and picture windows plus two additional bedrooms offer private family retreats while a full suite with kitchen provides the perfect quarters for an au pair or guests. The property's lot of one acre is flourishing with native plants, a terrace for al fresco dining, level lawns surrounded by tall shade trees, a chicken coop with productive hens, and a mulched paddock area zoned for horse raising. All of this comes with easy access to Rancho San Antonio Park, Interstate 280, and excellent Los Altos schools.
